

Website Disclaimer

The website's content is provided for informational purposes only and should not be construed as legal advice. No action should be taken regarding your particular situation until you have first sought the appropriate legal or professional advice with regards to your specific circumstances. Perusing our website should not be construed as having sought professional advice.

The information presented in the news updates and videos from third parties (IRCC, CICC-CCIC) are of a general nature, accurate only to the date of their publication. They are not to be taken as legal advice for any particular case. For immigration advice on your specific situation, kindly Book a Consultation.

We do not in any way endorse the owner, the site, or the information contained in any of the website on the internet that may be visited as a result of following any links that may be provided on this website. Unless explicitly indicated, we do not have association or affiliation with these sites owned and operated by third parties, and we disclaims all liability with respect to actions taken or actions omitted based on information received from a third party website linked either directly or indirectly.

General inquiries via e-mail or phone does not constitute a client/counsel relationship and is not to be construed as legal advice, but merely as enabling a means to contact us in a direct and timely manner.

Please note that immigration legislation changes constantly, and even the interpretation of existing laws can change following new court decisions. While the content of this website may provide some general information, for any specific legal inquiry you should seek professional legal advice.